Maria Dunn – Manager Policy and Sustainability, Phillips 66

Maria Dunn, Manager Policy & Sustainability, helps formulate Phillips 66's view on external enterprise public policy issues, sustainability strategy and environmental-social-governance engagement. She currently co-chairs permitting and social license to operate section of the National Petroleum Council study on major energy infrastructure projects. Before her current role, Maria was a lawyer for the company where she managed matters ranging from M&A, litigation, commercial transactions, midstream and marketing operations, procurement and information technology. Maria has a passion for finding and connecting people and resources to solve business, legal and social problems, and has expertise in management of technical and legal matters affecting the energy industry, with an emphasis on collaboration strategy. She has led company-wide initiatives including human rights position, issues governance, corporate responsibility, data privacy and electronic discovery. Before joining Phillips 66 in 1997, Maria maintained a civil and criminal litigation practice in Illinois after her federal judicial clerkship. A graduate of University of Illinois law school and Boston College, Maria's home is in Houston, Texas, with her husband and two increasingly-adult children.
